Payments to the Credit Broker

You were introduced to us by the Credit Broker named above. The Credit Broker is part of our panel of trusted introducers. We pay them a commission for introducing you to us and as such their recommendation of our product does not constitute impartial financial advice. We want to make you aware of the commission and the basis of payment before you enter into a finance agreement with us.

In connection with your Agreement, if we enter into a finance agreement with you, we will pay the Credit Broker a commission of £50 of the document fee payable by you under the Agreement. This commission is set by us, and the Credit Broker has no ability to vary the sums you pay under the Agreement.

We have a commercial arrangement with the Credit Broker which requires them to introduce you to us first before considering any other lender. They will only introduce you to another lender if we refuse to offer you finance. Alternative finance solutions may be available, and it is important that you have considered all your options.

If you have any questions or would like any further information, please contact us or the Credit Broker before signing this consent form.

Your consent to payment of commission to the Credit Broker

By signing this document, you:

- agree that you have read and understand this document;
- understand that the Credit Broker will be paid a commission in connection with your Agreement and the basis on which they are being paid; and
- consent to us paying the commission set out above to the Credit Broker.
